

Faith

#0666

Study given by W.D. Frazee—June 19, 1959

I want to study with you something that is more precious than gold; more valuable than all the precious stones in this world. What is it?

“That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perishes, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise and honor and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ” 1 Peter 1:7.

This is something that can survive the world. There is no wealth of this world that we can store up and take with us to the next. When a millionaire dies, he doesn't take anything with him. The question is, how much did he leave? Well, he left everything.

The only thing we can take with us to the next world is character. Faith is more precious than gold. Do you have faith? It would be interesting if we had a little cross section of each mind here of the understanding of faith. I would like to study with you what faith is.

“For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith” 1 John 5:4.

What does faith do? It overcomes the world. If we want to overcome the world, we need faith. If we don't overcome the world we lack faith.

Here is a question Jesus asks:

“Nevertheless when the Son of man cometh, shall He find faith on the earth?” Luke 18:3.

What do you think? If you study the question, the inference is He won't find much. That is the whole point of what He is talking about.

I was interested in finding an answer to that in Spiritual Gifts. This little book was printed 95 years ago. It says:

“In the last days the earth will be almost destitute of true faith” Spiritual Gifts, Vol. 3, page 94

As sad as that picture is, I am glad the word “almost” is in there. Let's leave it out and see what it says. In the last days the earth will be destitute of true faith. What would that mean? None at all. But is that what it says? No. It will be what?

Almost destitute. Then will there be some? Yes, but it will be concentrated in a very few people. Those who have it will have plenty of it. You get a picture of them in Revelation 14:12:

“Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.”

Will He find faith on the earth? Yes. He will find people who have the same faith He had.

“And as it was in the days of Noe, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man” Luke 17:26.

When Noah entered the ark the flood came and destroyed them all. In verse 28 He brings in the days of Lot. The righteous were so few in Sodom that Abraham pleaded until he got God to spare the city for only ten people. The angels couldn't find that many righteous people in the city. There wasn't much faith left, was there? Notice Jesus says:

“Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed” Luke 17:30.

Will the whole world be converted? No. Will most of the world come along and believe God? No they won't. In the last days the earth will be almost destitute of true faith.

Do you think we are anywhere near the last days? Where do you think we are? In them? Yes. Well if we are in the last days, the earth is almost destitute of faith.

Notice Spiritual Gifts says true faith. The only faith is true faith, of course, but that word suggests there is a false faith, a counterfeit faith; something that passes for faith; something that people think is faith that isn't faith at all.

What is faith anyway? What is this article that is so rare that God takes the things that men know about, like gold, and says faith is more precious? What is this faith that gives us the victory that overcomes the world? What is this faith that Jesus is looking for when He comes and says He will find very little of? How is it revealed? How could you know whether you have it or not?

We can see already from what we have read in Luke 17 and 18 that it is not believing what the world believes. The world did not believe a flood was coming back in the days of Noah. Did it come? Yes. And when the rain was falling and the boat was rising, did all the world believe a flood was coming? Yes. Did they get faith all at once? No.

That is my point. They didn't get faith. Faith is not believing in a flood when it is raining. Many people suppose they have faith when all they have is good eyesight.

“By faith Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house” Hebrews 11:7.

Noah built an ark because he had faith. God told him a flood was coming. He believed it. And that act of believing God in things not seen was an act of faith.

Do you have that kind of faith? Or does God have to prove something to you before you believe it? Right there is the question. Does God have to make it look reasonable to you before you accept it? How many people I see waiting to obey God on some point until they see the sense in it and the reason for it. And you would be surprised how many people there are just waiting around to help you see that something God said is really not reasonable, and that you shouldn't do it until it appeals to your reason.

There was no reason in building an ark as far as human reason is concerned. There was no reason until Noah was in there and the door was closed. But then it was too late to do anything about it. Why? Because the whole thing hung on the point of faith.

Take the experience of Lot and Sodom. The angels came down and told Lot God was going to destroy the city. If you have anyone you love, go and tell them and get them out of here.

So he went around in the night waking up his loved ones. They laughed at him. They mocked him. They said he had a breakdown or something. The stars were shining brightly. Everything looked lovely and peaceful. In that beautiful valley with its tropical vegetation everything had the atmosphere and appearance that it would continue on indefinitely. They depended upon their human reason, their human ideas. The message of God was set aside.

But when the fire started to fall, do you suppose they had faith? No. They didn't have faith. They had sight, but it didn't do them any good.

When the Son of man cometh shall He find faith on the earth? Oh friends, when He appears in the East on the glorious cloud surrounded with ten thousand of His angels, will the world recognize Him then? Yes. And will that be faith?

No. It won't be faith. They will be crying for the rocks and mountains to fall on them and hide them from the face of Him that sits on the throne. Why? Because they have never had faith. Or if they had it they lost it.

I want to read you something that is impressing my mind.

“The prevailing spirit of our time is that of infidelity and apostasy—a spirit of pretended illumination because of a knowledge of the truth, but in reality of the blindest presumption. There is a spirit of opposition to the plain word of God and to the testimony of His Spirit. There is a spirit of idolatrous exaltation of mere human reason

God says something, but human beings reason with us about it. They say, Oh well, that couldn't happen that way. That's not so important. No, you don't have to do that. You don't have to be that peculiar.

There are plenty of good people who see it differently. The human mind loves to be convinced that what it wants to do is all right. Human reason goes up and the Word of God goes down. That is presumption. That is the spirit of our age.

Oh, I wish it was only out in the world, don't you? What a pity when it invades the church and gets right in the homes and hearts of the professed people of God. Years ago modern higher criticism was beginning to shoot its arrows at the Bible, and the wise men in the universities of this world began to pick the Bible to pieces. They found a number of things in the Bible they could find no proof for historically. They began to dissect them and hold them up as evidence that the Bible wasn't inspired, that the Bible was just a collection of folklore, myths, and legends.

Let me give you an example. The Old Testament speaks of a war-like nation called the Hittite. You have read about them. Well, the scholars smiled indulgently at that. They said the truth is there never was a nation called the Hittites. They said it was just some Jewish legend. There is no record of them anywhere. For years the wise men said no Hittites. But when the archaeologists got to digging around in the Middle East, they began to dig up evidence from the earth of the existence of this nation of the Hittites.

Today it is fashionable to believe that the Hittites were there. Do all those people now believe the Bible? No. They don't believe the Bible. They believe what they see. They believe what they dig out of the earth.

Here is another example. Have you read in the book of Daniel about a king called Nebuchadnezzar? The wise men said yes, of course there was a king called Nebuchadnezzar.

The Bible also tells in the book of Daniel about a man called Belshazzar that was king of Babylon. Have you read about him? He was on the throne the last night of Babylon. The Bible tells all about it.

The critics said Daniel wasn't written at that time, and part of the proof is that whoever wrote this story has put in the name of a man called Belshazzar, and there never was a king by that name. For years the critics held that up as evidence that part of the Bible was a mistake.

What do you suppose the people who had faith said? They said, We believe the Bible. We believe there was a king in Babylon by the name of Belshazzar. After awhile they dug up some clay tablets in the valley of the Euphrates. In them was a prayer by the king of Babylon for his son Belshazzar. That proves the Bible is true doesn't it? And if I believe it, is that faith?

No. That is not faith. That is demonstration. Do you see the difference? The man who had faith believed it when God said so. The man who didn't have faith had to believe it when the tablet was there in front of his eyes. But that wasn't faith. Oh, no.

Let's take another example. I pick up a book called Ministry of Healing. This book is fifty years old. I want to read a few things from this book, and I want you to know that most of the proof that is accepted today as evidence that what I am reading is true has come since that book was written, and a large share of it in just the last few years.

“Tobacco is a slow, insidious, but most malignant poison”

That word malignant is very interesting. When that page was penned cancer of the lung was almost unheard of. Today they are taking out thousands of parts of lungs, and sometimes whole lungs, because of cancer brought on by the use of tobacco.

You read about it in the public press of today. The great magazines like the Reader's Digest and News Week and others have big articles on the evidence that is piling up that tobacco is just what this says. Tobacco is a slow, insidious, but most malignant poison. One of the greatest surgeons of the South says that any man who is a heavy smoker will die of lung cancer unless something else kills him first. He is operating on hundreds and hundreds of them. This proves that what we read in Ministry of Healing is right. We believe it. But if we have faith we believe it before anybody gets any cancer from it.

Do you see the difference between faith and the opposite of faith? Even the Devil at the final judgment is going to be brought face to face with such an array of facts that he is going to have to admit that he is wrong and God is right, and he is going to bow down before the universe and admit all that. Will that mean that he has suddenly gotten faith? No.

What is faith anyway. Faith is believing God when the only reason you believe Him is because you believe God. It is believing God like a little child believes its father and mother. When the mother says, Darling, that is A, what does the little child say? A. When mother says, Book, what does the little child say? Book. That is the way we all learned to talk, isn't it? We had faith. And unless you are converted and become as little children you will not enter into this.

In this same book I read something very interesting about cancer:

“People are continually eating flesh that is filled with tuberculous and cancerous germs. Tuberculosis, cancer, and other fatal diseases are thus communicated” Ministry of Healing, page 313.

Cancer from flesh eating? Cancer from germs? This book was written over fifty years ago. Some thirty years ago, when I was a student at Loma Linda, the only people who believed that cancer was a germ disease were those that believed the Spirit of God inspired this book. I wish I had kept some of the articles of that time. Of course, they can be found in the libraries of today. There were magazine articles and scientific dissertations warning the public about cancer, telling what was known by science about cancer. And I remember they said, "We do not know what causes cancer, but we know it isn't caused by germs."

That was the science of thirty years ago. But there were some people who had simple faith and said, We believe it. This is Jesus talking. We believe that one of the ways people get cancer is eating meat that is filled with cancerous germs.

Today there are many scientists who are convinced that one of the causes of cancer is a virus similar to the virus that causes infantile paralysis. They have already proved that certain forms of cancer in chicken are caused in that way. They reason that if those viruses can cause cancer in chicken, they probably can cause cancer in human beings too. I expect they are reasoning pretty clear on that point.

There are some, of course, that drag their feet just as there are some dragging their feet on the idea that tobacco is causing lung cancer. The research men who are paid by the tobacco companies of America haven't admitted that tobacco causes lung cancer yet. I hope we will not wait on anything that God has said for men to find the evidence, and then admit it. If we do we lack faith.

Here is another interesting statement.

"If milk is used, it should be thoroughly sterilized; with this precaution, there is less danger of contracting disease from its use" Ibid, page 302.

I am not very old, but I can remember that when people did that they did it just because this book said so. But today there are thousands, and I suppose millions, who are educated to the point that raw milk is dangerous. Why? Because of undulant fever.

Someone says, We will fix that. That brings me to another point. When men get to reasoning about what God has said, and they find out how they can do what they want and still meet the problem as they see it, they always overlook something. Human reason has its way of solving the undulant fever problem without doing what this says. They are overlooking some things. And maybe tomorrow or next week or next month science will come along with some more evidence to prove this means just what it says. But the people who have faith won't believe it anymore after that than they do right now.

Here is another statement on the same page, in the same paragraph. Speaking of butter it says:

"As a rule, it is better to dispense with it altogether" Ibid.

I remember when I was a boy that many people looked upon those who didn't eat butter as fanatics. All the evidence that was needed for some people to prove that a person was a fanatic was if they didn't eat butter. When science came along and proved about vitamins and that butter was very rich in vitamin A, then surely something was wrong with the people who took it literally and did what it said.

Today you can read in the medical journals and the public press all kinds of articles telling people to cut down on butter, animal fat of all kinds, cream and eggs and meat. Why? Because of the fat question. Not just because you can get overweight, but because of the piling up in the bloodstream of cholesterol causing those deposits in the blood vessels that cause hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure and coronaries, and contribute in a large way to the leading cause of death in America today, which is heart failure.

So you understand the man that says, No thank you. I don't care for any butter. I will take a few olives or a little olive oil. Or perhaps some other kind of oil with unsaturated fatty acids. He is up to date. He is scientific.

“When properly prepared, olives, like nuts, supply the place of butter and flesh meats. The oil, as eaten in the olive, is far preferable to animal oil or fat” Ibid, page 298.

We know more of the reasons for that now than we did fifty years ago when it was written. But it isn't any truer. There are some more reasons that they haven't found out yet. You say what are they? I don't know. Man never gets to the end of God's wisdom. That is the thing I want you to see. Man never gets to the end of God's wisdom, and the man who is always trailing human science and human reason is way behind the man who is up there with God, listening to what God says, and doing everything God says. That man is ahead of tomorrow's scientific discoveries.

My subject is not the book Ministry of Healing. My subject is faith. What I am after is not to get you to believe these things I am going over. I know you believe them. Oh, my heart is longing that we would believe some other things that are contrary to human reason and that are contrary to our own inclinations. Do you think we will be tested on anything? Yes. Here is another one of that same kind:

“For use in bread making, the super fine white flour is not the best. Its use is neither healthful nor economical. Fine-flour bread is lacking in nutritive elements to be found in bread made from the whole wheat” Ibid, page 300.

About two years after this book was published a scientist came along and discovered something he called vitamins. Pretty soon they discovered another vitamin, and pretty soon another. When I was going to school out at Loma Linda you could count the then known vitamins on the fingers of one hand, but you couldn't now. You would have to use your fingers and toes and start over again. What does it mean? It means men are finding out some of the reasons why whole wheat flour is better than white.

But watch human reason. With all those discoveries and all that research, are the masses eating whole wheat bread? Do you think very many of these doctors and scientists are eating it? Why, it is like tobacco and lung cancer. Some of the very men who are bringing out the greatest evidence that tobacco causes lung cancer are sitting there puffing cigarettes while they have their committees sending out the figures to all the nations on relation between tobacco and lung cancer.

What is the matter? It takes more than mere evidence to get people to do something. What is needed is faith. Faith isn't just seeing some fact. Faith is believing God and wanting to please Him.

I come back to this whole wheat and white flour. Scientists got together and said the people are eating this white flour bread and it is causing pellagra and it is causing this and that, and people are not getting the elements. But they won't eat the whole wheat. They said they would put back some of the things that have been taken out. So they put some minerals back. They put some vitamins back. And that fixed it all up. Today we don't have to worry about it. All we have to do is get enriched bread, and we can still eat the white stuff and yet be properly nourished.

Or can we? I was reading something very interesting on that from a nutritional authority. He said, "After we put back everything we know and feed it to the rats, they don't seem to do as well as the ones that live on whole wheat flour."

I wonder why that is? Could it be that God knew what He was about when He made wheat? And would faith believe it in the first place before the scientist ever took it apart and tried to put it back together again? Do you see how simple faith is friends? It is very simple. It is just like a little child. It is just to believe God.

Oh, I pray that in some of the matters we may not see we will have faith. I want to ask you, do any of these things I have gone over test your faith today? Do any of them show or prove your faith today? No they don't. If you have faith it will be demonstrated in some other areas where human reason may not show so clearly that what God says is so.

Just as there is a skepticism in the world regarding the Bible, so there is a skepticism that is popular among some who profess to be waiting for the coming of the Son of man about things God has revealed to us through the wonderful channel of the Spirit of Prophecy in education, in the treatment of the sick, in dress, in association, courtship, marriage, music, literature, and many other areas. Some clear statement is read from the messages of Jesus, and then human reason takes over. Human reason begins to say, Oh well, it must not mean exactly that. Surely it couldn't mean that.

With that beginning, where is the end? There is no end. That is the point. There is no end. That is not the road to faith. That is the road to doubt. "There is a spirit of idolatrous exaltation of mere human reason above the revealed wisdom of God."

I remember talking to a young man on a certain subject. It was the question of association. A certain question came up. I said, "I have a reference here that answers that question. Would you do what it said if you saw it?"

He answered, "Let me see what it says."

What did he lack? He lacked faith. Now if I had gotten the reference out and convinced him that was good sense, then would he have had faith? No. That wouldn't have been faith. He would just be convinced that it was good sense.

If a bottle you are about to take has a skull and crossbones on the back but you haven't seen it, and I can persuade you to turn it around and you do see it, then do you have faith in me when I tell you not to take it? No. You don't have faith in me. You have good sense enough not to open that bottle with the skull and crossbones on it. That isn't faith. It is a little bit of good sense.

Whenever God or God's servant has to convince you that something God says is reasonable and that it is going to hurt you if you don't follow it, you don't have faith. When you have to wait until you can see the sense in something, you don't have faith.

God warns us of the peril of worldly education and we say, Well now, wait a minute. There are a lot of people who get worldly education and it doesn't seem to cause them to lose all their Christian experience. We begin to reason, and we find some way out.

Will God let us do it? Oh yes, God will do what men won't do. Men sometimes try to get us in a corner and crowd us to the wall and make us admit something. God won't do that. God says, "These things you have done, and I kept silent."

My dear friend, because you are getting away with something, don't think that proves God is asleep or that God didn't mean what He said. God will let you go on for years before tobacco gives you lung cancer, or before the high use of animal fat gives you high blood pressure. It may take a long time. And there are many other things you may do in reading, in education, in association, and in all that enters into life, and apparently have a Christian experience.

But like those hidden virus that are working away in the lungs of a man that is using tobacco day by day, so there is something working in your soul, my friends, if you do not believe God. And sooner or later, perhaps when it is too late, you will come face to face with the evidence that proves human reason was wrong and divine revelation was correct.

Oh, is there anyone who has faith in God? When the Son of man cometh, shall He find faith on the earth? Somebody says, It doesn't hurt my conscience. I can do this and it doesn't hurt me. I can follow this course and it doesn't hurt my conscience at all. Is what hurts your conscience the test of faith?

Let us turn to a very simple text dealing with a tremendous truth. If you forget everything else we study tonight, be sure to remember this:

“So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God” Romans 10:17.

If you have not heard the Word of God do you think you will have very much faith? I think not. And even if you hear it and don't listen to it, I don't think you will have very much.

Faith comes by hearing. Hearing what? The radio and the TV? The newspaper and the popular magazines? Will that develop faith in your mind and heart? I am not discussing this moment whether it is right or wrong to listen to those things. In all of them there is a hodge-podge of good and bad, true and false, fact and fiction. That isn't my point. I am asking you how does faith come? It comes by hearing the Word of God. Do you know why? Because faith is believing God.

Paul says:

“How shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard?” Romans 10:14.

How can we have faith in something we have never read. We are told that many are going directly contrary to the light which God has so graciously given because they do not read the books.

I propose two things. I propose that as never before you and I enter into the study of what God has given through His Word and through the Testimonies. I propose we settle in our hearts in advance that we are going to believe it as soon as we read it without waiting for any other proof. That's faith. When you can kneel down with your open Bible and say like Samuel, “Speak Lord for Thy servant hears,” that is faith. When you can say before you read a chapter, Lord, tell me anything You want to in this chapter and I will believe it and do it, that is faith. We can take any of these inspired volumes that God has given in these latter days and say, Lord, I take this for myself instead of trying to find someone who will show me how to argue out of it. I am simply going to pray for grace to do the thing You say without even looking for a reason why I don't have to do it. That's faith.

And when the Son of man cometh, will He find faith on the earth? Not very much. In the last days the earth will be almost destitute of true faith. But will there be some? Oh yes, friends. There will be some people that will be all faith. What faith there is in the world will be greatly concentrated. There will be a few as in Noah's day, as in Lot's day. There will be a few who will believe anything God says. There will be a few who will believe everything He says. And the world will look upon them as crazy like they did Noah and Lot. But when the flood comes, they will be riding in the ark. When the fire descends, they will be with God. That's what Jesus is looking for.

Dear Savior, we thank You that You died so we may have this gift of faith. Help us as we look to Calvary tonight that our hearts may be stirred with a great love for the One who gave everything for us, and that faith may awaken in our hearts that someone who loves us this much is worth trusting, worth depending on. And wherein we have let human reason steal away the sweet assurance of faith we are sorry Lord, and we repent of it and give it up.

As Thy little children, we just stand here before the cross and look up to that Savior and say, Lord we love you and we know You love us. We believe what You say is true and we are going to accept it and walk in it. We thank Thee in Jesus' name. Amen.
